NORTH METRO INVITES THE COMMUNITY

Northglenn/Broomfield, CO—On Thursday, January 20, North Metro will hold an Open House of their new Headquarters building located at 101 Lamar Street in Broomfield from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m. This event is free and open to the entire community – a donation of one pair of new children’s winter boots will be appreciated.

Citizens will be welcome to tour the facility at their own pace and learn about the building’s features, design, and personnel who work within it – through a self-guided format. Along the way, visitors will also be able to sample fire house cooking as three fire personnel (one person from each of North Metro’s three on-line shifts) will prepare light refreshments.

North Metro will also be collecting new winter boots for children during this grand opening event. All boots will be donated to a Broomfield non-profit, A Precious Child. All youth sizes for male and female children are needed.

“This event is designed to reflect the nature of our organization by infusing our connection to the community throughout the evening,” stated Wendy Forbes, Public Information Officer of North Metro Fire Rescue. “In addition to our boot drive, Citizens will get to see the art submitted during our Community Art Project. The selected pieces are framed and hanging throughout the first floor of the facility.” All other submitted pieces will be on display in the Board Room.

There will be a brief ceremony at 5:30 p.m. in Board Room to officially open the facility, honor the participating artists, and present a winter boot donation to A Precious Child. Self-guided tours of the facility will continue to 7 p.m. Fire District personnel will be on-site available to answer questions from the community.

Parking will be available on the street in front of the building and at adjacent surface parking lots.
